Natural language processing (Wikipedia): Natural language processing (NLP) is a field of computer science, artificial intelligence, and computational linguistics concerned with the interactions between computers and human (natural) languages. In 1950, Alan Turing published an article titled Computing Machinery and Intelligence which proposed what is now called the Turing test as a

Natural Language Parsing edited by David R. Dowty

This is a collection of new papers by leading researchers on natural language parsing. In the past, the problem of how people parse the sentences they hear - determine the identity of the words in these sentences and group these words into larger units - has been addressed in very different ways by experimental psychologists, by theoretical linguists, and by researchers in artificial

The Stanford Natural Language Processing Group

A natural language parser is a program that works out the grammatical structure of sentences, for instance, which groups of words go together (as "phrases") and which words are the subject or object of a verb.
